

Dr John Common is a Senior Principal Investigator at A*STAR Skin Research Labs and previously held the same position at A*STAR, Institute of Medical Biology. John's laboratory focuses on studying skin barrier function and inflammatory skin diseases. John obtained his PhD from Queen Mary University of London characterizing the function of epidermal connexins under the supervision of Professor David Kelsell.