

Eleanor Ostroff, BA

Eleanor Ostroff is a rising third-year medical student at Northwestern University Feinberg School of Medicine in Chicago, IL, USA. She was raised in the western suburbs of Chicago and graduated from the University of Chicago with a BA in chemistry.

Her current research interests include cutaneous lymphoma and cutaneous metastases of visceral cancers. In her free time, she likes to read, play board games, and bake.