

Alan Irvine, MD DSc, is a professor in dermatology at Trinity College in Dublin, Ireland, and honorary professor in the School of Life Sciences at the University of Dundee in Dundee, Scotland. Since 2002, he has been a consultant dermatologist in Our Lady's Children's Hospital, Crumlin/St. James's Hospital in Dublin. Dr. Irvine has published more than 200 peer-reviewed articles, mostly on atopic dermatitis and genodermatoses.

His international awards include:

- the German Dermatology Society's Paul Gerson Unna Prize
- the Times Higher Education (THE) Supplement Research Project of the Year
- many lectureships from groups such as the American Academy of Dermatology; American Academy of Allergy, Asthma & Immunology; Royal College of Physicians of Edinburgh; University of Minnesota; and Children's Hospital of Philadelphia and University of Pennsylvania.

Irvine completed his dermatology training in Belfast, Northern Ireland, with post-residency fellowships in Great Ormond Street Hospital for Children in London and Children's Memorial Hospital in Chicago as a Fulbright Scholar.